

CASTORE PEAK

One of the classic 4000m peaks on the Monte Rosa massif, a destination not to be missed!

Very interesting itinerary with a first day approaching the Quintino Sella refuge on a path which in the final part runs along small stretches of via ferratas and suspension bridges. The next day, the climb to the tip adds a pinch of adrenaline on an aerial ridge, but still safe and not too demanding.

PROGRAM:

1st day: meeting in the morning and checking the materials, with the lifts we reach the Gressoney Valley up to Colle Bettaforca: from here in about 3:30 hours of walking we arrive at the Quintino Sella refuge (3585m) where we spend the evening.

2 day: early morning departure from the refuge, first crossing the Felik glacier and then the steep slope we arrive at the hill of the same name, from here we reach the summit along the ridge. Return along the same itinerary up to the Bettaforca pass and with facilities return to Alagna in the afternoon.
